Quick Tips on Parenting

What can you do when your child doesn't listen to you? Things that do not work: threaten, criticizing, putting them down, and begging them. These actions make children stubborn, defiant, or hurt.

Instead, Try These Ideas:

Go over to your child, and make eye contact.

With young children, touch them to get their attention. Talking from across the room, or from another room seldom works. When you are close to your child, he/she will hear you better.

Tell your child what to do, instead of WHAT NOT TO DO.

Change "don't" into "do". "Walk instead of running." "Keep your paint on these papers."

Give your child information. Describe the problem. Information helps children figure out what to do. Try, "I'm making a phone call and need quiet." "Ants come in the house when jelly is on the floor."

Don't back yourself and your child into a corner.

Try "When".....instead of "If....." Instead of "If you don't finish your lunch, you can't go outside." Try "When you finish your lunch, you can go outside".

The louder you yell, the less effective you are. Screaming and yelling lets your child know that you are out of control.

Please be patient !!!!!

Instead of Punishment:

When children are punished, they become hurt, angry, and defiant.

Children need to learn what to do instead of misbehaving.

Our job as parents is to help them learn.

Parents if you do not have a Parent Handbook, please ask for your copy in the office.

Give your child a choice

Give a choice...but only a choice you can live with. "you may walk beside me or ride in the cart. You decide." "Supper is at 5:30 p.m. no more playtime allowed if you want to eat".

Take Action. Follow through when you have given a choice or told them what to expect.

"Since you are not staying beside me, you must ride in the cart."

"You are still arguing over the toy, I'll put it away until after supper".

Remember you are the Grown Up. Stay cool, firm, calm and clear.
